Golden Rule Remodeling & Architecture Celebrates 34 Years

Complimentary Oregon Coast trip with remodel contract

Salem, Ore. 7 July 2009 – This summer, Golden Rule Remodeling & Architecture, Inc. (GRR) of Salem, Ore. celebrates its 34th year in business. In honor of this milestone, GRR is offering a complimentary stay at the Oregon Coast to those who sign a new contract between July 1 and September 1, 2009.

This new contract incentive is one of several creative ways the company has been able to sustain a successful business throughout the past 34 years. The remodeling company has endured several economic recessions and considers itself on “strong financial footing” during today’s tough economy.

President of GRR Jack Johnston has taken the remodeling company from a home-based business to a full-scale design-build remodeling firm. In 1994, Jack was one of the first remodelers in Salem to achieve the Certified Remodeler (CR) status from the National Association of the Remodeling Industry.

In March 1999, the business incorporated and its name changed from Jack Johnston Architect/Builder to Golden Rule Remodeling & Architecture, Inc., which is “a name that reflects how we feel about doing business and the type of business that they’re in,” says Johnston.

Details about GRR’s 34th Anniversary Oregon Coast incentive can be found at www.goldenruleremodeling.com under the “promotions” tab or by calling 503.365.8100.
